ADMITS SIX INDIANA-KENTUCKY KILLINGS

About Town

No Incumbents Added to Proposed 59th House District

BOUNDARIES: I noticed a couple of days ago it was announced that the proposed redistricting of the state of Illinois was ready to be introduced as a bill and that there was considerable opposition to the layout in some regions because by making changes some of the incumbent representatives from separate districts would be running against each other from the same district.

However, a look at the setup in this area reveals that this would not be the case from the proposed 59th House district which includes Saline county. This district would be composed of four of the five counties of the present 51st Senatorial district—Saline, Pope, Massac and Johnson—with the fifth—Hamilton—thrown into another district and Williamson, Gallatin and Hardin counties added.

Right now the three representatives from the 51st come from the following counties: Paul Powell and W. O. Verhines from Johnson and Gordon Kerr from Massac. And a further look reveals that none of the representatives from the neighboring 48th and 50th districts come from the counties that have been added to the 59th House district. Gallatin and Hardin are in the 48th, but the three representatives are from West York, Lawrenceville and Carmi. Williamson is in the 50th Senatorial district but the representatives are from Tamm, Anna and Benton.

Now if the proposed district for state senators had the same boundaries as the proposed house district, we would have a condition. But they aren't. The senate districts are supposed to be based on area and the house districts on population; so the senate districts in this part of the state are smaller than the house districts.

As a result Williamson county is not in the proposed senate district for this area announced several weeks ago and consequently Sen. Homer Butler of Marion and Sen. Glen O. Jones of Raleigh remain in separate districts. The proposal for our senate district is for it to contain Saline, Hardin, Massac, Johnson and Pope counties, which means that Hardin would be added and Hamilton subtracted.

HERE IN HARRISBURG: The Jim Boles have a baby who will be two weeks old Friday. The baby, Melissa Ann, had a perfectly normal birth but in a few days her mother noticed a knot coming on the shoulder. The baby cried when the place was touched; and a week ago today Mrs. Boles took the child to a local physician, who took an x-ray picture.

The picture revealed the baby—just a week old—had a fractured collar bone. There is no indication as to how she suffered the injury. Baby Melissa now must spend some time with her shoulders taped and pulled back.

Just six months ago Melissa's two and a half year old sister, Pamela Jean, fell off a footstool and—that's right—suffered a broken collar bone.

Belinda Sue, five and a half, got through her early years without a collar broken fracture.

W. Morris, a banquet, a swim show, an all-school dance, and church on Sunday.

In the past, any number of students were allowed to attend the Hospitality Weekend, but this year the number was limited. The four students were selected from the upper third of the Senior class.

U. S. to Share Information on Salk Vaccine

Congress Proposals Seek to Avoid Any Black Market

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government moved rapidly today to carry out President Eisenhower's order to share information on the Salk anti-polio vaccine with other nations as an international gesture of good will.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles took personal command of the project and assigned it a top priority. In Congress, various proposals were suggested to insure that no black market develops in distribution of the vaccine in this country.

Dulles planned an afternoon meeting today with Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation For Infantile Paralysis, to discuss Mr. Eisenhower's plan to give the rest of the world the benefit of U. S. knowledge about the anti-polio vaccine.

Dulles also requested from the foundation a copy of this week's history making report by Dr. Thomas Francis Jr. on the effectiveness of the vaccine. The State Department will send copies of the report to the 75 foreign countries with which the United States maintains diplomatic relations, including Russia, and to the World Health Organization.

Vaccinations First
Dulles also announced he will confer with other federal agencies on how far the United States can go in making the vaccine itself available for export. But it appeared unlikely there will be any large-scale shipments of the vaccine overseas until vaccinations in this country are well under way.

The Commerce Department only Wednesday put all exports of the vaccine except to Canada under regulation. Its action means the vaccine cannot be exported except under Commerce Department license.

At the capitol today, two House members said that any sign of a black market in the vaccine develops in this country, Congress should be prepared to crack down. This view was expressed in separate interviews by Reps. Abraham J. Multer (D-NY) and Barratt O'Hara (D-ILL.), both members of the House Banking Committee which has jurisdiction over price control and rationing legislation.

President Asks Fair Distribution Of Salk Vaccine

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower today directed an immediate federal study to assure fair distribution of the Salk polio vaccine to all sections of the country and segments of the population.

The President directed Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, secretary of health, education and welfare, to make the survey, then report back to him on the best ways and means of assuring "that every section of the nation receives a fair proportional share of the vaccine."

The accent for the time being will be on voluntary methods of assuring fair distribution. White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty did not know what steps might be taken along non-voluntary lines should such a plan become necessary.

Hagerty said that Mrs. Hobby was conferring today with medical officers of the federal government about the distribution program and would confer later with representatives of the medical profession and the pharmaceutical industry.

Raleigh Man to Supervise State Conservation Land

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—George I. Tate, Raleigh, a Saline county farmer, today was named supervisor of agricultural land for the Illinois Conservation Department. Conservation Director Glen D. Palmer said the appointment fills a new conservation post created to provide efficient management of farm lands owned and operated by the department.

The Conservation Department has more than 6,000 acres of cultivated land on the Horseshoe and Union county refuges.

Inquest Tonight in McDermott Death

An inquest into the death of J. B. McDermott will be held at the court house at 7 p. m. today, Coroner Elmer Gibbons has announced.

POLIO VACCINE DELIVERED—The first shipment of Salk polio vaccine for distribution to physicians for private practice inoculations is greeted by Kathleen Thompson at Dallas, Texas. Seven thousand pounds of vaccine arrived by air. This is part of the distribution that will provide free polio vaccine for school children in the first and second grades throughout the nation. ### Meanest Trick--Carrier Mills Firemen Make Run to Harrisburg in Downpour

The meanest trick was pulled last night. It resulted in the Carrier Mills fire department making a fast run to Harrisburg in the hardest of the downpour.

Just who was responsible for the hoax was not known this morning but officials were investigating.

Between 8 and 8:30 last night the Carrier Mills fire department got a call. It was a woman's voice which stated: "This is the superintendent's wife—the Harrisburg Junior high is on fire again and the Harrisburg fire department needs help."

The crew quickly got together and made the trip on open truck in the downpour. Arriving at the Junior high school there was no sign of fire or activity.

First the Harrisburg fire department knew anything about it all was when Raymond Field, Carrier Mills township supervisor, called a call. He said the Carrier Mills fire department had received a call and was on its way to Harrisburg.

When the Carrier Mills boys arrived they were soaking wet, but when they found out what had happened they were burning up—naturally.

Fireman Hicks checked with the supervisor of the local telephone exchange and was told that there were no calls from Harrisburg to Carrier Mills made during the time around which the call to the Carrier Mills fire department was made, that undoubtedly the call was made on a dial phone at Carrier Mills or in the Carrier Mills area. Only call on the Harrisburg-Carrier Mills lines at all, Hicks was told, was the one Field made to talk with him.

Firemen here today pointed out that with the highway as slippery as it was last night, the truck in its haste to get to Harrisburg could have easily had an accident and killed some firemen.

"And if that had happened," one said, "it would have been a case of murder just as much as if some body had shot them with a pistol."

John Hathaway, 82, retired farmer, dies at liberty. John Hathaway, 82, died today at 3 a. m. at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Langford, in the Liberty community.

A retired farmer, he was born in Pope county the son of Will and Rena Hathaway. He had suffered a heart ailment for the past six years and had been in very poor health since last January.

Surviving are three children, Mrs. Dorothy Russell, Mrs. Irene Langford and Earl Hathaway, all of Harrisburg; eight grandchildren, four great-grandchildren, and a sister, Mrs. Ollie Isham, Fairbury, Ill.

A son, William, preceded him in death ten years ago, and his wife passed away 31 years ago.

Mr. Hathaway was a Baptist by faith and the funeral will be at the Big Ridge church Saturday at 2 p. m. Rev. Paul Frick, assisted by Rev. Clyde Vinyard and Rev. Clayton Humphrey, will officiate and burial will be in the Big Ridge cemetery.

The body will be taken from the Harrisburg funeral home to the Langford residence late this afternoon.

Humane Society Tag Day Saturday

The Harrisburg Humane society will hold its annual tag day Saturday to secure funds to help it continue its animal welfare program in Harrisburg.

Girls from the sixth, seventh and eighth grades will sell the tags, selling them in their neighborhoods Friday evening and uptown Saturday.

Congress Asked To Increase Minimum Pay

WASHINGTON (AP)—Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell asked Congress today to boost the wage minimum from 75 to 90 cents an hour.

He also suggested that application of the Fair Labor Standards Act be broadened.

Mitchell told a Senate Labor subcommittee the boost could be put in effect with no great "impact" on affected industries. He said it would mean "some improvement" for about 1,300,000 workers.

But he argued against CIO-AFL proposals that the minimum be hiked to $1.25. Any boost above 90 cents, Mitchell said, "would require very serious adjustment in some industries."

The $1.25 rate, he said, would force wage increases for about half the manufacturing workers in the South. Opposition to any boost is centered mainly in the South.

President Eisenhower already has asked that the minimum rate be set at 90 cents an hour under the Fair Labor Standards Act. Mitchell noted that the President also has suggested "increased coverage of some 24 million jobs are now affected."

Mitchell said "broader coverage is now justified and feasible."

He suggested Congress consider extending coverage to 2,100,000 employees of "multi-state" enterprises like store, hotel, and movie house chains.

C. E. Hamilton, Crab Orchard Lake Planner, Dies

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP)—Funeral services will be held here Friday for Charles E. Hamilton, 82, who was one of the planners of Crab Orchard Lake.

Hamilton, a prominent southern Illinois Democrat, died Wednesday after a short illness.

Hamilton and the late former congressman Kent Keller were among the planners of the Crab Orchard, Little Grass and Devil's Kitchen artificial lake projects in the 1930s. He held several federal appointments during construction of the lake and the ordnance plant west of Marion.

Hamilton also once owned public utility plants here and in Benton and had real estate holdings in Carbondale. He had practiced law here since 1900.

Gallatin County Teachers' Institute Friday

The Gallatin County Teachers' association will hold its Spring Institute Friday at Equality Township high school, with James O. Austin, principal of Ridgway Community high school, presiding.

The program will be under the direction of staff members from SIU, and instructors for the day will include Neal Phelps, Claude Dykhouse and Ivan Russell. Topic for the discussion will be "Mental Hygiene and Human Relations."

The program will commence at 9:15 with invocation by the Rev. Cyril A. Cronk, Ridgway. The Equality school bands will present a short musical program, under the direction of Guy E. Malin. This will be followed by a business session and reports.

Dr. Russell will address the group at 10:25 on "Main Spring of Human Behavior." Sectional meetings will be held prior to the noon meal hour and again in the afternoon following another short musical period by the Equality bands.

Reports of the sectional meetings and the election of officers will conclude the day's activities.

Village's Mayor, Prominent Citizens Take Part in Bible Reading Marathon

GARBER, Okla. (AP)—This small village's 85 Baptists and their friends took turns reading from the Old Testament today in a "Biblethon" they vow will end with the last word in the New Testament.

The Bible-reading marathon began Wednesday night with the First Book, Genesis, and is expected to last one or two more days until the readers have finished the Last Book, Revelations.

Cautioning his parishioners to read slowly from the large Bible, the pastor of the First Baptist Church, Rev. Wilbur Nuckolls, took the first 15-minute turn himself.

"The idea is to read it so your hearers can understand it," the Rev. Nuckolls said. "Don't try to skip the big words you aren't sure how to pronounce. Just do the best you can."

With only 94 readers signed up for the beginning of the "Biblethon," Nuckolls confidently predicted that more citizens from the

Administration Urges Court to Guard Against Delay to End Segregation

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration urged the Supreme Court today to guard against any efforts by southern states to stall indefinitely on a program mixing the races in public schools.

"There is no justification anywhere for neglecting to make an immediate and substantial start toward desegregation," U. S. Solicitor General Simon E. Sobeloff said.

He submitted a five-point plan for ending bi-racial public schools, as the high court concluded its hearings on putting its anti-segregation order into effect. The court ordered the hearings when it ruled last May that it is unconstitutional to have separate school systems based on race.

The government's "moderation with firmness" plan is a middle course between the programs suggested by the Negro parties and those of the states.

In a brief filed with the court, the administration proposed that: 1. The segregation cases be sent back to lower courts with directions to carry out integration "as rapidly as the particular circumstances permit." School authorities must then submit a plan within 90 days for ending segregation "as soon as feasible."

2. If the plan is not satisfactory, the court should direct that Negro children be admitted to non-segregated schools by the beginning of the next school term.

3. After a plan is offered the lower court shall hold a hearing and fix the earliest practicable date for completion.

4. Periodic progress reports must be made. The court may issue orders against necessary delays.

5. The Supreme Court shall keep jurisdiction and be supplied information on how integration is being carried out.

Sobeloff told the court late Wednesday that the government does not agree that integrated schools should be ordered immediately as attorneys for Negro groups have

Widow Named To Searcy Post

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—The widow of Earle Benjamin Searcy is succeeding him as clerk of the Illinois Supreme Court.

The seven Supreme Court justices Wednesday announced that they were naming Mrs. Fae Searcy, Springfield, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of her husband Monday.

Searcy's term had 21 months to go, and the law provides for a special election if the unexpired term exceeds a year. However, it was considered likely Mrs. Searcy would hold the post the full 21 months due to the time and expense of a special election.

Mrs. Searcy is the former Lula Fae Isenberg, Shelbyville. She and Searcy had two children, Mrs. Kenneth Wells Darnwood, Chattanooga, Tenn., and Earle Benjamin Jr., Fort Wayne, Ind.

The job of court clerk pays $10,000 a year.

Searcy, 67, was stricken with a fatal heart attack at Hinsdale Monday. Funeral services were held here Wednesday.

New Manager at Kroger Store Here

Jack Graham, who has been manager of the Kroger supermarket at Eldorado the past few years, has been transferred to the Harrisburg Kroger supermarket on North Main street and will move here as soon as he can find a house.

Graham, whose rise has been rapid in the Kroger organization, succeeds Charlie Cagle, who has been transferred to a Cairo store.

The new manager here is a native of Du Quoin and managed Kroger stores at Xenia and Vienna before going to Eldorado.

Orpheum Pool Room Burglarized

The Orpheum pool room was burglarized early yesterday and about $70 was taken, city police reported. Entrance was made through a window and a door was broken open for the exit.

.35 Inch Rainfall

Harrisburg rainfall last night measured .35 inch and at Galatia the precipitation was .54 inch, Harrison Kibler reported today.

At Middle Fork and Bankston creeks were up, too, with the gauge on Middle Fork at Route 13 showing 14.74 feet.

To File Murder Charges Against Leslie Irvin, 30

Parolee Cracks
After Five Days
Of Questioning

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP)—Moody, quick-tempered Leslie Irvin, 30, has admitted killing six persons with bullets through the head in an Indiana-Kentucky reign of terror, police said today.

Murder charges were to be filed today against Irvin, a prison parolee and factory worker. A tug of war developed between Indiana and Kentucky authorities over which would have the first chance to prosecute him.

Chief of Detectives Dan B. Hudson said Irvin cracked late Wednesday after five days of intensive questioning.

His admissions came in the form of scattered oral statements, Hudson said. But, Hudson said, they added up to a substantially detailed description of how the six murders were committed.

There was a possibility that Irvin would be questioned about two killings at Chicago similar to those in the Evansville area. Lt. James McMahon, chief of the Chicago homicide detail, said he would confer with the Chief of Detectives John T. O'Malley today on whether to send officers to Evansville.

McMahon thinks Irvin should be questioned about the slaying on April 18, 1953 of William J. Stein, 22, and of Elmer Heather, 23, on Dec. 28, 1952.

The wave of slayings began last December and became known as "the mystery of the kneeling corpses" and the "Chinese execution murders."

This was because all of the victims were found kneeling and the hands of four of them were tied behind their backs. Chinese soldiers traditionally perform executions with the victims bound and kneeling.

The killing spree reached its climax March 25 when four members of a wealthy Henderson, Ky., farm family were shot, three of them fatally.

Irvin spared the blonde, two-year old daughter of one of the victims because "I like children," Hudson said.

Irvin was captured Friday on a tip from two teen-aged members of a sheriff's Junior Patrol that his car matched the description of an automobile seen at the scene of the Kentucky murders.

Hudson said Irvin admitted all six of the murders started out as burglaries. But he only obtained $1 for the Henderson slaughter, Hudson said.

Surprised Looting Home
On March 28, according to the police chronology, Irvin was ransacking the home of Raymond Duncan, 20, near Henderson when Duncan and his 51-year-old father, Goebel, surprised him.

Irvin marched the Duncans at gunpoint to a nearby swamp and forced the son to tie his father's hands with a belt. While the older man pleaded for his life, Irvin shot him. Then he killed the son and tied his hands afterwards.

Irvin had returned to the home when Raymond Duncan's wife, Elizabeth, 21, and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Mamie Duncan, 47, drove up. Mrs. Raymond Duncan's blonde, two-year-old daughter, Shirley, was with them.

Irvin forced the women to drive to near Goebel Duncan's home and then order the daughter-in-law to remove some of her clothes "so he wouldn't run away while I shot the other one," police said.

The bullet fired into Mrs. Goebel Duncan's head didn't kill her, but she will be blinded for life. The younger woman's body was found on a bed with her daughter lying beside her.

High Wind
Hits Olney

OLNEY, Ill. (AP)—A high wind which might have been a small tornado hit Olney Wednesday night and carried a fruit stand across a street, leaving the building's contents intact.

The wind hit the eastern section of Olney about 9 p. m. Residents reported they heard a noise like a freight train at low-flying airplane but no one saw the dark funnel which usually marks a tornado.

The Orpheum pool room was burglarized early yesterday and about $70 was taken, city police reported. Entrance was made through a window and a door was broken open for the exit.

The petition asks that the ballots, poll books, tally sheets, certificates and returns of the judges and clerks of the April 5 election be taken into county court and that a recount be made under the direction of the judge.

The petition was filed by two voters, an election judge left the polling place and returned with four absentee ballots that gave Pittman the election by two votes.

One Grain of Truth

Editorial — By BRUCE BROSSAT
Somebody said the other day that a lot of us are more concerned with who is right instead of what is right. In other words that there isn't enough passion for the truth.

Human rivalry seems to grow ever more intense at all levels of our life. The jockeying for advantage leads many to ignore or trample upon the truth.

In the public realm, government becomes increasingly secretive, cloaking its errors, seldom conceding it is wrong. Politicians talk as if virtue were wholly partisan.
The opposition must be evil because it is the opposition.

In our private worlds the situation may be better, but even here the quest for truth and the regard for it are not what they should be.
There are many causes for our mounting toll of broken homes; not the least is the frequent failure of husband and wife to face the truth about each other and about themselves as individuals.

The notion is abroad that individual survival in a highly competitive age compels a man to don protective armor even against those closest to him. But too often it serves as a shield that deflects
the truth.

The competition is real enough,
and so is the uncertainty it breeds.
Uncertainty naturally makes many of us feel insecure. We like to be able to count on the sure, the knowable thing. Too many times we cannot.

But shutting out the truth, or refusing to look for it, will not actually contribute to our security.
More likely it will only heighten uncertainty and feelings of insecurity.

Most successful marriages, according to the experts, develop when two people are able to face their own personal shortcomings and each others, but decline to be defeated by the reality of human frailty and strive instead to make a workable partnership out of the materials at hand.

Perhaps surprisingly, in the public sphere there are politicians who are not afraid to acknowledge mistakes, to concede the worth of a sound argument no matter who makes it, to admit that problems can have more than one aspect and more than one solution.

These well-adjusted fellows on the whole do very well at the political trade. In fact they often do better than those who believe their only safety lies in presenting themselves encased in impenetrable armor, and surrounded by legends of their own eternal rightness and invincibility.

The truth is frequently hard to come by, sometimes impossible to find. But when it lies within grasp we should seize it, and if it can be dug out we should unearth it.
There is more peace of mind, more feeling of assurance, in knowing and accepting one grain of truth than can be found in all the suits of armor from here to China.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Pan
American Union Celebrates Its 65th Birthday — With Peace;
Squirrels Now Bother GOP
More Than They Bother Ike's
Putting Green; Honor System
On Liquor Taxes Doesn't Work.

WASHINGTON. With some parts of the world looking pretty bleak and the U. S. A. sitting on the edge of possible war around Formosa, there's one area close to home which the American people can feel happy about — our good neighbors in the Western Hemisphere.

It was just 65 years ago that the first Pan American conference formed the Pan American Union.
Since then, it has worked quietly with little fanfare to build up a new code of behavior among states.

Every so often the Pan American Union gets into the headlines when some crisis takes place, such as the threat of war between Costa Rica and Nicaragua. But most of the time its work is an unspectacular but important labor in the vineyard of good neighborliness.

Most people don't realize it, but the Pan American Union is the oldest of all international organizations, and the only one that operates on a true democratic basis.
It survived where the League of Nations failed. It has no votes that count more than other votes. It has no veto, no permanent seats for powerful nations. It operates on a completely democratic basis and the vote of Haiti, which is 300 times smaller than the U. S. A., counts just as much as the vote of the U. S. A.

So, while most of the world has seen increasing wars, the Western Hemisphere owes its decreasing wars to the patient good neighborliness of the Pan American Union.

Riding in a Capitol elevator the other day, two young men were discussing Washington's favorite recent topic of conversation — squirrels. Said one of them:

"You know, this squirrel thing has really caught on. It's done more harm to the Eisenhower administration than anything else so far."

Wouldn't you like to come in and sample some of our nuts?"
said a young lady who was in the elevator and couldn't help overhearing the conversation.

"People from all over Oregon have been sending Senator Neu-berger nuts to help him feed the squirrels banished from the White House lawn," invited the young lady. "Come in and take a look at them."

By this time the young man began to realize that he had said the wrong thing. Blushing, he identified himself as Art Burgess, a member of the Republican policy committee staff. The young lady was Miss Helen Nickum, who works for Democratic Senator Neuberger of Oregon.

FDR'S OLD SLOOP

After I reported that Secretary of the Navy Thomas had turned down a gift of FDR's old sailing sloop because it would cost too much to repair, I received a suggestion from Joe De Silva, head of the Retail Clerks Union of Los Angeles, that admirers of FDR might want to contribute to the repair of his sailing sloop on the 10th anniversary of his death.

De Silva started the ball rolling by sending his own check.

The sloop is the one which Roosevelt used when he was assistant secretary of the navy and before he became crippled with polio. His son, Congressman James Roosevelt, offered it to the Naval Academy at Annapolis as a gift, thinking the midshipmen might use it on Chesapeake Bay as part of their training and that it might have some sentimental value to the Navy which reached its greatest strength under his father.

Secretary of the Navy Thomas, however, replied that it would cost $600 to repair the sloop and the Eisenhower administration was trying to balance the budget.

Commented Joe De Silva: "I see that my fellow Los Angeli-ans, Charles Thomas doesn't want to spend a few dollars repairing Roosevelt's old sailing boat though the Navy has plenty of

Miss Barbara Jean Henley, Lt. Thomas Elwood Aaron Married Easter Sunday

(Ronnie's Studio Photo)
Lt. and Mrs. Thomas Elwood Aaron

In the presence of a small group of relatives Miss Barbara Jean Henley, daughter of Mrs. Leland Miller, 205 North Webster, and Frederick Henley, Tallahassee, Fla., and First Lieutenant Thomas Elwood Aaron, son of Mrs. John B. Norton, Orlando, Fla., and the late Elwood Aaron, exchanged wedding vows in a 3 o'clock ceremony Easter Sunday in the new First Methodist church.

The pastor, Rev. W. L. Cummins, officiated at the single ring service.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, George Henley, was lovely in a floor length gown of white nylon tulle designed with a low V-shaped neckline and dainty sleeves of white alencon lace which also paneled the skirt. Her tulle chapel length veil was secured to a lace tiara studded with pearls and rhinestones. She also wore nylon tulle mitts and carried a bouquet centered with a white orchid.

Miss Sherry Lynn Hensley, close friend of the bride, was maid of honor, wearing a gown of nylon tulle over orchid taffeta. She carried a nosegay of pink carnations interspersed with purple.

The brother of the bridegroom, Robert Aaron, of Belleville, served as best man. Ushers were Richard G. Ferguson and Ronald Darnell.

Miss Lorene Dorris was organist, accompanying John Schork who sang "Yours is My Heart Alone" and "The Pledge."
A reception at the home of the bride followed with Mrs. Ronald Darnell, Mrs. John R. Jackson, Miss Shirley Gaskins and Mrs. George Hensley assisting at the bride's table.

Both are graduates of the Harrisburg Township high school and attended the University of Illinois. The bride was formerly a stenographer at the First National bank in Harrisburg, and the bridegroom, who is a graduate of West Point Academy in New York, is now a first lieutenant in the United States Army.

The couple is now on a wedding trip in Florida and upon their return will make their home at Fort Campbell, Ky.

Out of town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Aaron, Belleville, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Gore and daughter, Megan, Tulsa, Okla., Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Ferguson and sons Ricky and Stanley, Hinsdale, Ill., and John F. Gibson, Chicago, and George Henley, Corpus Christi, Texas.

Evergreen Garden Club Holds April Meeting

Seventeen members answered to the roll call "If I had but one rose." Plans were made for the annual tour to visit Grant's Farm, St. Louis, Mo., on May 10 and 11. Reservations for the trip have been made by 19 members.

Mrs. H. V. McDaniel gave an interesting and well illustrated talk on "Garden Jewelry," stating that one should make a garden a place for outdoor living and not just a place to grow flowers. She also told how one may add charm to a garden through the use of arches, trellises, bird baths, steps, walks, edgings and many other items of garden jewelry.

Following the meeting Cokes and cookies were served by the hostess who was assisted by Mrs. Dan Minner.

Mrs. G. H. Dorris of Pontiac, Mich., has returned to her home after a three weeks' visit with her sisters, Mrs. W. C. Kane and Mrs. John L. Jarrells Sr., and other relatives and friends. ## Gov. Stratton Receives Report On Proposed Lake

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UP)—Gov. William G. Stratton's office said today it had received the report of the State Division of Waterways on the proposed Rend Lake project which would be built on the Big Muddy River north of Benton.

William W. Downey, aide to Stratton, said the report would be released after the governor had had a chance to study it.

Stratton said he was in accord with the Rend Lake project if it is shown to be feasible. He urged formation of conservancy districts in his opening speech to the Legislature today.

Backers of the project believe they can get federal funds to buy the lake site and build a dam between narrow bluffs of the Big Muddy north of Benton if they can back claims for feasibility of the project.

The lake would cover about 13,000 acres in a sparsely settled area, according to studies by railroad and industrial firms. The trustees said the conservancy district could lease the lake for recreational, public and industrial water purposes in the financially depressed area.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UP)—Charles Murphy, 2, has experienced his first hangover.

He drank a half pint of whiskey Wednesday when his parents weren't looking but is feeling better after a brief hospital visit.

Freakish Spring Weather Leaves 5 Persons Dead

By United Press

The storm-battered Southland was warned to brace for possible tornadoes today and a pea-soup fog cut visibility to near zero at New York City.

Meanwhile, a warm sun and zooming temperatures melted blizzard snows in the west.

The Columbia, S. C., Weather Bureau issued a special warning of possible isolated tornadoes in seven counties in the southern part of the state.

Three days of freakish, savage weather across the nation's Southern half have left at least five persons dead and property damage estimated in the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

100-Foot Bridge Collapses

In Mississippi, more persons were feared dead in the collapse of a 100-foot bridge over the flood-swollen Homochitto river.

At least two, and possibly more, cars plunged into the raging river when the bridge buckled late Wednesday near Woodville. Authorities said they could not be sure how many vehicles fell or how many occupants had been carried to their deaths.

Natchez Police Chief S. C. Craft said, "The water is too high and swift to get to the cars. We don't know how many people have died."

The vast spring storm started with blizzards in the northern Plains which swept into Oklahoma and Texas. Choking dust storms then hit the Southwest, while tornadoes and record-breaking rains swept from Texas into Arkansas, Alabama and Mississippi.

The savage squall line ripped Mobile, Ala., with a tree-toppling twister and drowned the Gulf city in a record 13.30 inches of rain in less than eight hours Wednesday.

Fifth Army Headquarters May Be Moved

CHICAGO (UP)—Fifth Army Headquarters may be moved from here to Ft. Des Moines, Iowa, Omaha, Neb., or Jefferson Barracks, Mo., although an Army spokesman said nothing is definite yet.

Lt. Gen. Hobart R. Gay, commanding general of the 5th Army, is conducting a survey to determine what would be involved in a movement of the headquarters, it was learned Wednesday.

Gay recently received a request from a "higher authority" to determine what would be required to move the headquarters to one of the three locations. The survey is not yet complete.

The headquarters now occupies an 11-story building on Chicago's South Side. The structure was formerly the Chicago Beach Hotel.

Gay's predecessor, Lt. Gen. William B. Keane, once recommended a move to Ft. Sheridan, north of Chicago. The recommendation was never acted upon.

Two possible locations at Omaha would be old Ft. Omaha, now occupied by a federal agency, and old Ft. Crook, used by the Strategic Air Command.

Gen. Peyton March, Army Chief of Staff In World War I, Dies

WASHINGTON (UP)—Gen. Peyton C. March, Army chief of staff during World War I, died Wednesday in Walter Reed Army Hospital where he had been confined since breaking a hip 14 months ago. He was 90.

His wife, Cora, was at his bedside when he died.

Before March became Army chief of staff on May 20, 1918, he had served in France as artillery commander of the American Expeditionary Forces.

31 HTS Girls To Attend FHA Rally at Mt. Vernon

Thirty-one girls from the FHA at the Harrisburg Township high school will attend a spring rally of FHA organizations from eight counties at the Mt. Vernon Township high school Saturday, April 16.

Three hundred girls are anticipated to be present at the rally representing 26 high schools from the counties of Saline, Edwards, Gallatin, Hamilton, Jefferson, Wash, Wayne, and White.

The rally will begin in the morning with a business meeting in which officers for next year will be elected. The theme of the rally is "Spring Stylarama" which features the new spring styles, and following the business meeting a hair stylist from Carbondale will initiate the new spring hairdos on seven girls from Southern Illinois university, after which they will model garments with new spring touches.

Lunch will then be served by the Homemaking department at Mt. Vernon high.

The afternoon session will begin with eight schools combining to give a talent show. Following the show, a style show will be presented featuring garments made in home economics classes which will be modeled by FHA girls with two girls participating from each school. The rally will end with the installation of the new officers elected in the morning business meeting.

The following girls from HTS plan to attend the rally: Myrna Gee, Linda Gee, Helen Pierson, Jeanette Parker, Pat Morgan, Janice Gilliam, Margie Partain, Mary Jane Gibbons, Betty Tolbert, Susie Grammer, Catharine Anderson, Barbara Dunn, Karen Clark, Linda Booten, Yvonne Stubbe, Judy Nolan, Judy Foster, Carla Stuby, Carolyn Endsley, Barbara Warmelink, Linda Adams, Jane Hughes, Shirley Turner, Peggy Raley, Guylene Yates, Nina McDaniell, Marilyn Bramam, Lila Lockaby, Joann Priest, Treva Kay Humphrey, and Mae Nell Meers.

Mrs. Herman Dunn, Mrs. Noveta Priest, and Mrs. Pauletta Humphrey, chapter mothers from Harrisburg, will also attend the rally.

Launches Dr. Salk 'Gratitude' Fund

RICHMOND, Va. (UP)—A one-man "gratitude" fund campaign for Dr. Jonas Salk, discoverer of the anti-polio vaccine, has been launched here.

Marshall B. McReynolds, executive of a traffic engineering supply firm, said in announcing his campaign that he did not want Dr. Salk to die "poor" as many other scientists have.

McReynolds wants parents to mail in $1 for each of their children to Dr. Salk, even though no member of the family may ever have been a polio victim.

They might be, McReynolds said, except for Dr. Salk.

Conditions for Treaty Agreed by Austria, Russia

MOSCOW (UP)—Austria and the Soviet Union concluded an agreement on conditions for an Austrian state treaty today. Both governments prepared to issue an immediate call for a five-power conference to sell it to the West.

It was one of the most significant breaks in the diplomatic logjam of the cold war.

But the Western powers, which must agree before any Austrian treaty is signed, waited cautiously for a look at the small print before hoping for a final agreement.

The five powers envisioned at the possible conference on an Austrian state treaty would be the United States, Russia, Britain, France and Austria.

It was understood the German question would be excluded from the conference agenda.

Details of the agreement were being tightly guarded pending the issuance of a communique. But cautious speculation in diplomatic circles was that the Soviet position would be such that the West most likely could accept the five-power conference call.

Limestone Lem Says:

"IT MAY BE TRUE THAT POVERTY IS NO DISGRACE BUT NEVER HAS IT BEEN USED AS A TESTIMONIAL OF ABILITY."

Calcium Cal, that's just the way I feel about good crops. A farmer, that knows what he's doing, shows it right in his fields.

More and more farmers are coming to realize the importance of LIME-STONE as a plant food. On acid soils of the Midwest, LIME-STONE is necessary for efficient crop production. You must LIME if you want to get a full return from your investment in fertilizer and land and labor.

Failure to use enough LIME-STONE is a common error. A farmer should use a record book to keep account of the treatment, the crop and the yield of each field each year. LIME-ONES, our best soil builders, are the first to suffer if LIMEING is inadequate.

On most of the sour soils of the Midwest, LIME-STONE properly used is still the number one soil treatment material in terms of dollars invested.

COLUMBIA 2200 LIME-STONE is 20% finer than 200 mesh giving you more fine powdery LIME-STONE, which will act quicker in neutralizing soil acidity. Let: Ewell Harris, Galatia, Ill.

Ralph Carpenter, Eldorado, Ill. supply the LIME-STONE for your land and increase your farm's earning power.

Roberts Off to Best Start
In Four Years with
Opening Day 4-2 Victory

By United Press
Robin Roberts of the Phillies, the only pitcher around who is given an outside chance of winning 30 games, was off to his best start in four years today after leading an opening day "jinx" and nearly hurling the first no-hitter of his career in the process.

Usually, "Robbie" is an opening game dud. He lost the openers in 1954, 1953 and 1952 but he had the world champion Giants under his thumb for eight-and-one-third innings Wednesday as he beat them 4-2, before 13,219 opening day fans at Philadelphia.

Alvin Dark spoiled Roberts' no-hitter when he singled to right field with one out in the ninth. But the 28-year-old Philadelphia right-hander, who has won at least 20 games the past five years, wasn't disturbed even though the Giants put together two more hits for their only two runs.

Robbie Not Disappointed
"I never try for no hitters and it doesn't matter too much that I didn't get this one," he said after the game. "The important thing is that we won."

Wilson to Orioles

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — Jim (No-Hit) Wilson, who pitched the only no-hit, no-run game in the major leagues last year, today was sold by the Milwaukee Braves to the Baltimore Orioles.

The Braves announced they got an undisclosed amount of cash and the rights to a satisfactory minor league player, to be named before May 1.

Wilson, who was unhappy with the Braves last season because of some inactivity despite considerable pitching success, thus joins his favorite manager, Paul Richards of the Orioles.

Tigers Present Bucky Harris With 2,000 Victory as Manager

CHICAGO — The Detroit Tigers presented Bucky Harris with the 2,000th victory of his managerial career Wednesday as they trampled Kansas City, 10-2.

The Athletics used four hurlers who issued eight walks and gave up 19 hits good for 17 bases. Steve Gromek pitched eight-hit ball for Detroit.

Kansas City moved into the front with a first inning run, but the Tigers rapped losing pitcher Arnie Portocarrero for four runs in the third to take the lead. The Tigers picked up five more runs in the sixth and another in the eighth while holding the A's to one more run in the seventh.

The Detroit-Kansas City clash was the only game scheduled yesterday by Midwestern teams.

Robin Roberts
Near No-Hitter
In Opening Win

PHILADELPHIA — Big Robin Roberts, a frequent bidder for the pitching Hall of Fame, was somewhat disappointed today that his opening day victory over the world champion New York Giants was not a no-hitter. But he wasn't taking it to heart.

The Phillies' magnificent right-hander went eight and one-third innings without allowing a hit in Wednesday's opener. Then with one out in the ninth, Giant shortstop Alvin Dark lashed a single to right after hitting five straight fouls, exploding Roberts' bid. With the tension gone, Robbie allowed two more hits before he closed out the game a 4-2 winner.

"I knew all the while I had it going," Roberts said in contrast to other no-hit aspirants who plead ignorance of what is apparent to everyone else in the ball park. "Then Dark hit those fouls. Then he hit a curve ball, and hit it good, too. I'm disappointed in a way but I'm mighty glad we won."

Feller's Record Stands
Roberts, squaring his six opening day appearances at 3-3, was gunning for the Phils' first no-hitter since 1906 and the first opening day no-hitter since Bob Feller pitched the only one in baseball history.

Roberts, a five-times 20-game winner, was balked twice last year when he tossed one-hitters against Cincinnati and Milwaukee. In the Cincy game, the Springfield Rifle gave up a first-pitch homer to Bobby Adams and then retired 27 men in a row. Del Crandall's third inning hit spoiled the Milwaukee bid.

Roberts looked fast on the dull, chilly afternoon with a haze drifting heavy over the outfield fences. He fanned four and the infield had only three assists.

Control Was Good
"But I've been faster," Robbie said. "My control was good."

Phil's Manager Mayo Smith, a winner in his first big league assignment, said happily that "part of our bench looks okay."

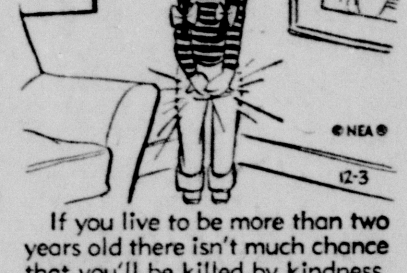

He referred to long-time Peanut Lowrey, picked up as a free agent last winter, and Stan Palys, a rookie up from Schenectady. Their opening day duties were to replace the injured Del Ennis and Richie Ashburn, whose consecutive game streak ended at 730.

Palys had a hit and walk and scored two runs. Lowrey had two hits and batted in two runs.

Eagles Lose
Dual Track
Meet at Carmi

Eldorado's victory string in dual track meets was snapped Wednesday afternoon by a power-packed Carmi track and field squad, 65½ to 52½. The meet was held on the Eldorado field.

This marked the first dual meet loss by Eldorado in more than three years. The Al Adams coached teams had gone unbeaten over three seasons and won their first two meets on the 1955 schedule.

Operating without the services of Acie Gwaltney, consistent point gatherer in the dashes, low hurdles and broad jump, the Eldorado squad couldn't keep up with the Carmi Bull Dogs, who made a clean sweep of three events—the broad jump, high jump and pole vault.

With two events remaining—the broad jump and mile relay—Eldorado held a 52½ to 51½ advantage. Then Carmi swept the broad jump and won the mile relay by some 20 yards and that was the end of the Eagles long victory string.

The outstanding individual performance was the 143 feet, 5½ inch discus toss by Eldorado's Lovellette.

Eldorado, which had been losing as a definite threat for the district title, suffered setbacks yesterday that practically removed the team from serious consideration.

Two top performers, Gwaltney and Frank Willis, have found it desirable to work after school hours and Saturdays. Unless something can be worked out regarding their working hours so they can continue to run and work Eldorado's hopes are more or less smashed.

Both are juniors and apparently just reaching their peak. Willis has the best time for the mile run in this part of the state and Gwaltney had recorded the second best time in the 220-yard dash, was considered a threat in the low hurdles and added the needed strength to the relay team to make it a winner.

Two Surprise
Selections by
Pro Cage Teams

NEW YORK — The selections made by the Boston Celtics and the New York Knickerbockers caused the greatest surprise today in the wake of the National Basketball Association's annual player draft.

A grand total of 95 outstanding college players were named by the pro league's eight teams in Wednesday's draft, the highlight of the annual owners' meeting.

The meeting also saw two bids for the defunct Baltimore Bullets' franchise turned down.

The Celtics caused the first surprise when they named Jim Loscutoff of Oregon as their first pick. They had been expected to go instead for the more publicized Dick Hemrie of Wake Forest or Jesse Amelle of Penn State.

Boston nabbed Hemrie on the second round, but Amelle wound up in Fort Wayne's bag.

The Knicks had been expected to name Ed Conlin of Fordham at the start as their "territorial choice." Instead they passed up any territorial choice and picked lanky Kenney Sears of Santa Clara as their first nominee.

Tom Gola of La Salle, Dick Garmaker of Minnesota, and Dick Ricketts of Duquesne were the first three players picked. All three were named on the 1955 United Press All-America team and Gola was named as "Player of the Year."

Gola was the first chosen, as the "territorial choice" of the Philadelphia Warriors. Garmaker was a similar pick by the Minneapolis Lakers. The Warriors and the Lakers, having made a territorial choice, thus gave up their first round pick in the regular draft.

Ricketts was the first named here, by the Milwaukee Hawks. The first-round selections, going in the reverse order of the teams' finish in the league race, saw Rochester take Maurice Stokes of St. Francis (Pa.), Boston take Loscutoff, New York take Sears, Fort Wayne take Johnny Horan of Dayton, and Syracuse take Conlin.

Bobo Olson Rounds Out
10-Round Decision Over
Light-Heavyweight Maxim

SAN FRANCISCO — Carl (Bobo) Olson, a L'il David with a mighty slingshot in each hand, crashed into the light heavyweight ranks for keeps today in the wake of pounding out a brutally decisive ten-round decision over Joey Maxim at the Cow Palace.

"Bobo has proved that he can handle the big fellows and we'll go for anybody — even Rocky Marciano—if the price is right," Manager Sid Flaherty said after Wednesday night's slaughter.

The bald ruler of the middleweight ranks weighed 169 pounds for the non-title, nationally-televized fight, while Maxim, former world light heavyweight champion, had to sweat to get down to 175 or forfeit $10,000.

Maxim Floored Twice
Olson had Maxim on the fringes of a knockout in the second and ninth rounds when he floored him with vicious combinations to the head. But Pal Joey always managed to clamber up and keep trying to land his stiff left jabs and hooks.

Olson dropped the former light heavyweight king for two counts of eight during the battle, leaving

Joey so confused that he said in the dressing room afterwards that he thought he had gone down three times.

Olson's Streak Unbroken
The busy Bobo-man smashed Maxim down the first time with an overhand right to the jaw which he bounced off Joey as if striking him with a dagger.

Another right started Maxim down in the ninth and Bobo kept him going canvasward with a left smash to the face.

It was Olson's 21st straight triumph since Ray Robinson outpointed him in a middleweight title scrap three years ago.

Olson's punches were strictly of the TNT variety and came with amazing rapidity as he constantly squared his shoulders, weaved in, busied himself on Pal Joey's midsection, then suddenly exploded one-two to the face.

"Time's marching on," Joey laughed afterwards as he swapped gags with reporters in his dressing room. "I'll never fight again as a light heavyweight."

Sugar Robinson
Is Favored Over
Ted Olla Tonight

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — Sugar Ray Robinson was favored to defeat Wisconsin middleweight champion Ted Olla tonight when the two meet in a 10-round boxing match here.

Robinson, the former middleweight champion, said he would file for reinstatement of his crown if he defeated Olla.

Robinson contended middleweight champion Carl "Bobo" Olson was casting his lot in the light heavyweight division. He said the middleweight championship reverted to him in such case under Marquis of Queensbury rules.

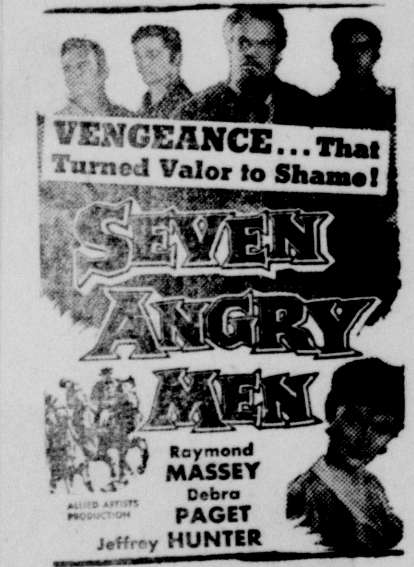

Robinson, who is attempting a comeback after three years absence from the ring, said he never actually gave up his title. He left the ring after losing a light heavyweight championship fight to Joey Maxim June 25, 1952, on a knock-out in the 14th round.

Robinson said, "I insist I have first claim to the 160-pound title because I never gave it up. If I had beaten Maxim for his light heavyweight title, I would then have relinquished my middleweight crown."

97 Scholarships Will Be Awarded Under Kroger Plan

Ninety-seven outstanding high school graduates will begin college studies in agriculture and home economics under the Kroger Scholarship Plan for 1955. It has been announced by H. Layton Lindsay, manager of the retail food firm's Carbondale branch which operates stores in this area.

The $200 one-year awards are available for next fall at land-grant colleges in 17 midwestern and southern states in which Kroger operates, as well as California and Florida where the company's produce procurement offices are located.

In announcing the program, Lindsay quoted a letter from a Kroger scholarship winner of 25 years ago who recently wrote to tell the company how this encouragement provided the incentive that has led her to a life of community service. She called the scholarship program a "long-range investment in human welfare."

"We are proud of her and of the hundreds of the other Kroger scholars who have since graduated and are doing useful jobs in their communities," he said. "We think our investment has been well worthwhile."

Originally begun at Ohio State university, the program has been expanded to include 25 land-grant colleges. The Agricultural and Technical College of North Carolina was added this year.

Any graduate of an accredited high school is eligible. Applications should be made directly to the dean of the college of agriculture, or through county agents, home economics teachers, or vocational agriculture instructors.

Selection of winners will be made by the scholarship committee at each college. Awards will be made on the basis of scholastic achievements in high school as well as leadership qualities demonstrated in school, church, 4-H clubs, Future Farmers of America, New Homemakers of America, or similar organizations.

Men in Danger Do Pray, Vachel Davis Says on Murrow Program

The beliefs of Vachel Davis, coal miner artist from Eldorado, were broadcast throughout the nation today on Edward R. Murrow's "This I Believe" program, carried over the CBS radio network at 3:10 p. m.

The Daily Register received permission from Rens Hill, assistant editor of "This I Believe," to carry the text of Mr. Davis' creed today.

Mr. Davis' remarks in full as given on the "This I Believe" program:

"After having lived in the coal fields for fifty years, with the smoke from the coal mines as a horizon, I know tragedy! The tragedy of mine explosions and the 'death whistle' whose wailing sound strikes terror in the hearts of everyone who lives on 'company row' and in every coal miner's humble shack. Often as a lad I stood with the crowd gathering around the mine shaft where a tragedy had occurred. With pale drawn faces, tears coursing down their cheeks, some sobbing, some praying, were the wives, mothers and children of the men who worked in the pits. Sometimes a wife or a mother had to be held back from jumping into the open shaft. As a child, these scenes haunted me.

"A coal miner walks so close to death daily, in the nether darkness of his world, he forms a philosophy of his own necessity. When a man knows that he is utterly, helplessly surrounded by danger, with millions of tons of rock and earth above him, with only small mine props to support the roof over him, he must find something to have faith in. Sometimes there is a tendency to believe in ghosts and omens. Some carry good luck charms, to help ward off danger. One may feel that he has a charmed life, or another may reckon that 'what is to be will be', and there is no way to avert this predestination. There are many who believe in prayer and faith in the protecting hand of God.

"The coal miner's creed might not always be orthodox and his cathedral has no costly stained glass windows. The mine safety props are the pillars of his temple where he whispers his prayers, without the solemn tones of the organ and the cushioned pews. But his horny, calloused hand brushes a tear from his coal-blackened cheek, and he feels that God has heard him through the several hundred feet of earth that hangs over him. And he KNOWS that there is a God, for he feels that inward Witness and Presence that satisfies him.

"I believe when a man realizes how helpless and insufficient mortals are, when he faces inevitable danger and tragedy, he must put his faith in something greater than himself. When a man has looked upon the broken, crushed and burned forms of his miner buddies, and when he dares to think of these things, he forgets the devil-may-care front that he wears. The words that come from his untrained lips are heard by God and He recognizes it as prayer.

"So, THIS I BELIEVE, that men who face constant dangers, as do coal miners, do pray, for it is the only help they can expect. When all Nature seems to cry out and revolt in the bowels of the earth, the helplessness of a man leaves no possible avenue of escape—other than help that is Supernatural and Divine!

"But, while a miner to some degree becomes a fatalist, I believe that there are some things a man is meant to try to change. With what knowledge and art I possess, I find my greatest satisfaction is in trying to save the lives of the men who mine our nation's coal. I cannot doubt that there is a Supreme Being—there is a Power above that of man—and I believe that in devoting myself as best I can to improve the welfare of others—by doing this—I am fulfilling His will."

Company Charged With Negligence In Miner's Death

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill. (AP)—A Franklin County coroner's jury has charged the Freeman Coal Co. with negligence in the death of a miner.

The miner — 60-year-old Leo Weaver of Herrin — was killed Monday in an accident at Orient mine No. 2 at West Frankfort. Weaver was motorman of one of two motors which collided underground during cleanup operations at the mine which has been closed temporarily.

The coroner's jury did not recommend any action against the company. Franklin County State's Atty. Joseph Hieman could not be reached for a comment on the verdict.

Mrs. Paul Tanner is Elected President Of Horace Mann PTA

At the regular April meeting of the Horace Mann P. T. A. held last week Mrs. Paul Tanner was elected to serve as president for the coming year. Other officers elected to serve with her were Mrs. Bill Gall, vice-president, Mrs. H. N. Jarvis, secretary, and John Cape, treasurer.

Preceding the business meeting Dr. J. D. Wimpee gave an informative talk on preventative medicine. After giving a brief history of vaccines, he outlined a suggested schedule for inoculation and vaccination of children. This included the so-called DPT inoculation which protects against diphtheria, whooping cough, and tetanus, and subsequent "booster" shots; and vaccination against smallpox. He stressed the necessity of these proven preventatives and praised the local school system for its work in popularizing them.

In closing, he mentioned the possibility of the new polio vaccine.

Announcement was made of the May meeting, at which time the new officers will be installed.

Architect Says Present Day Houses Best

By ALFRED LEECH
United Press Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO (AP)—Architect A. J. Del Bianco says they don't build houses like they used to. They build them better.

Del Bianco, one of the nation's foremost designers of small homes, is an amiable sort. But it irks him to hear self-styled experts cast aspersions on modern construction.

"Houses were never built better than they are today," he said. He cited these comparisons:

The house of yesteryear was supported by wooden beams, had 2-by-6 rafters 16 inches apart, and the plaster is 1/2 inch thick.

Says Concrete is Thicker
In Grandpa's day the typical house had a brick foundation. Building codes today require reinforced concrete.

In the building boom of the Roaring Twenties, the concrete forming the basement floor often was only two inches thick. Today it is four inches, and usually far superior in quality, Del Bianco said.

Lot sizes are larger, too. In the 20s, bungalows often were built on lots 40 feet or narrower. Now a 50-foot frontage is no longer considered large, and many suburbs have set the minimum at 60 or even 75 feet.

Del Bianco believes people who stick up their noses at today's large scale housing developments should take a look at the row bungalows built in the 20s.

Small House Still a Headache
"They were appallingly alike," he said. "You had to be careful or some dark night you'd find yourself knocking at your neighbor's front door by mistake."

Even with its improvements the small house can be an architectural headache, Del Bianco said.

"The low-price house is always a compromise because you can only build so much house with a limited amount of money," he said.

"Almost anybody can design a $50,000 house, but try laying one out for $15,000."

Open house for prospective students of the St. Luke's Hospital School of Nursing will be held Saturday, April 30, from 1 to 4 p. m. in the nurses' residence, 721 Belt avenue, St. Louis. Young women who are interested in careers of nursing are invited to attend.

Most Domestic Workers are Covered Under New Social Security Law

Beginning January 1, 1955, more men and women employed in private households started earning future social security protection. The new social security law makes it easier for domestic workers to be included under social security, according to E. Bishop Hill, district manager of the Harrisburg office of the Social Security Administration.

Starting this year non-farm domestic workers will have to meet only this simple requirement to come under social security. They must earn at least $50 in cash wages from the same employer in the three months of a calendar quarter, regardless of the number of days they work during this period. There are four such calendar quarters in a year. They begin January 1, April 1, July 1, and October 1.

Mr. Hill stated that it is no longer necessary to work for one household employer on 24 different days in a three-month period in order to get social security credit for your work. This means that domestic workers who work only occasionally for an employer may now build up old-age and survivors insurance protection for themselves and their dependents. Domestic workers who have been earning social security credit on some but not all of their jobs, may for the first time be able to earn social security credits for all of their work.

Under the new law, a domestic worker may actually work only one day a week for as little as $3.85 in weekly cash wages and still be earning social security. This would not have been possible under the old law. If a private household worker is paid $50 or more in cash wages by the same employer in one calendar quarter, her employer will deduct a two percent social security tax from those wages. Then the employer will contribute an equal amount as his tax for the worker's social security. At the end of each quarter the employer will report the cash wages and the tax contributions to the District Director of Internal Revenue.

According to Mr. Hill the new law not only increased the amount of payments to persons now getting monthly benefits but also provided larger benefits for people who become entitled to benefit payments in the future. The smallest old-age benefit to an insured worker who retires at age 65 or later will be $30 a month, and the smallest survivor payment to a family will be $50.20.

Let's take the case of a household employee whose average monthly wage is $100 in cash. When she retires at age 65 or later she will get an old-age insurance payment of $55 a month. If she has an aged husband dependent on her they, together, will get $82.50 monthly. If she should die at any age and leave a dependent child under 18, the child will get $41.30 a month; if there are two surviving children, together their combined benefit will be $68.80 every month. If she leaves three or more minor children they will get a total payment of $82.50 monthly.

If you are employed in a private household, you must have a social security card to show your employer. Your employer will

Illinois Council for Mentally Retarded to Meet in Chicago May 7

Plans are underway for the third annual convention of the Illinois Council for Mentally Retarded Children. The date has been set for Saturday, May 7, at the Morrison Hotel, in Chicago. Bruce T. Humphreys of Hinsdale is president of the council. Fred G. Hessler of Berwyn is chairman of the convention committee and Mrs. John Mack of Cicero and Mrs. William Hasselberg of Forest Park are co-chairmen of the convention program committee.

The program will begin at 8:30 a. m. with registration and a cup of coffee. Interesting exhibits will be on display.

Illinois Council reports for 1954-1955 will be given by the president. Committee reports will be given on legislation, education, programs, and membership.

There will be several interesting panel discussions throughout the day, such as "How to Plan the Future for the Retarded Child," "Sheltered Workshops," etc.

Martin Papish of Philadelphia, president of the National Association for Retarded Children, will be guest speaker at the luncheon.

Need to see your card in order to copy your name and social security number for the reports she must make of your cash wages. In this way, you will get social security credit for your earnings, Mr. Hill concluded.

Madigan hesitated and was lost. "Fletcher, it's my job to bring in a prisoner as soon as I arrest him. If I carry Cragg around town with me, I've got to explain the reason to the captain. If it isn't a good reason, I'll be pounding a beat."

"And if you bring in the person who murdered the son of one of the richest men in the United States?"

"That's the reason I'm gambling. I know you're a slick, fast-talking sharpshooter."

"Don't believe him, officer," cried Mr. Peabody. "Don't believe a thing he tells you. I have reason to believe that he entered my apartment and stole a suit of my clothes."

Johnny wagged a forefinger at the hotel manager. "Some day, Peabody, some day..."

"Come on," snapped Madigan suddenly. He started for the door. Sam fell in beside Johnny and the two uniformed policemen fell in behind them.

"Oh, the things I went through today," Johnny moaned. "Tell me later."

The squad car was at the curb. The two policemen got into the front seat and Madigan, Sam and Johnny crowded into the rear.

"Where to?" asked Madigan. "The Barbizon-Waldorf."

The driver wore the siren until Madigan curtly ordered him to stop.

Five minutes later the police car pulled up before the Barbizon-Waldorf. A doorman came over, then backed away.

"Sam won't escape. I'll give you my word," Johnny said. "Yeah, I promise, too," chimed in Sam.

"All right, come on," snarled Madigan. He gestured to the policemen. "You boys wait out here."

The three men climbed out of the rear seat and went into the hotel. They rode up to the floor of Sutton's apartment, then as they neared the room, Johnny stopped. "Let me and Sam go in, Lieutenant. You wait outside until I call you."

Madigan gritted his teeth. "I'll be right outside this door."

Johnny and Sam entered Sutton's suite. Hertha Colston sat in a big chair near the window, a half-empty glass in her hand.

"Johnny!" she cried. "It's nice seeing you again."

"Hello," said Johnny casually. "This is my friend, Sam Cragg."

"How are you, Sam?" Hertha said cordially.

"You made a conquest this noon," Sutton said, smiling. "But I gather you didn't do so well with Don Wheelright."

"He's an advertising man," replied Johnny carelessly.

"That's more than I am," said Sutton wryly. "What'll it be?"

"Never mind," Johnny interrupted. "You said you had something important to tell me."

"I have, but let it wait a few minutes. Uncle's on his way over."

"You called him? They told me at his office that he was out."

"He probably was. He called me."

"Don't on his way over, too," said Hertha.

"Good," said Johnny. "Suppose I telephone Alice Cummings and ask her over?"

"That woman!" said Hertha disgustedly.

Johnny grinned. "I've got four inches of raw shin—and I think
